Welcome to Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky

Si yu, guten tag, con neech e wa, bonjour, ola, hello, and howdy. When Daniel Boone crossed the Cumberland Gap and came into Kentucky the first words that he was greeted with were the Cherokee words for hello. Daniel made that crossing more than 200 years ago. People came from Virginia into the Kentucky and Ohio areas because the land was rich and the promise of the future was great. These lands presented settlers many diverse opportunities.

In the days of Daniel Boone many different native American languages were spoken in this area. Today, one can hear many different languages and experience many different cultures in the Cincinnati area. The area of Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky will offer many diverse opportunities to NACAA members during the 2006AM/PIC.

Some examples are the NACAA Heritage Dinner on Saturday, the Sunday evening Inspirational Program which will contain 3 testimonials from those impacted by Extension, Trade Talks, States' Night Out, Tour Day, Special Speakers and the DSA Banquet and Hall of Fame Recognition. The speakers for the meeting will leave you with an appreciation of the past and opportunity for our future.

The Ohio and Kentucky Agents and NACAA Committees have worked as a team to develop a strong line up of educational programs that will inspire you and meet the Professional Improvement mission of NACAA.

Look through the program closely for the activities that meet your needs. If you have any questions or need assistance please look for Agents from Ohio and Kentucky, they will be glad to assist you.

Agriculture "The River of Diverse Opportunities" is a fitting theme for this years AM/PIC and we welcome you to this exciting, diverse and educational program.

2006 AM/PIC SPEAKER PROFILES

SENATOR, SAXBY CHAMBLISS, (R) GA

On November 5, 2002, Saxby Chambliss was elected Georgia's 63rd United States Senator in what was one of the most stunning and historical victories of the 2002 elections. Chambliss is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and the Senate Rules Committee. He is the chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry. Through these committee assignments, Chambliss has emerged as a leader and gained the reputation as an expert on defense, intelligence, and agricultural issues.

In January 2005, Chambliss was unanimously elected by his Republican colleagues to serve as the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture. According to the Congressional Research Service, Chambliss is the only Senator since 1947 to chair a full standing Senate Committee who has served in the Senate for just two years. As Chairman, Chambliss oversees agricultural policy that affects the safe, affordable and production of the nation's food supply. He has earned praise and respect for his leadership. On his first day as chairman, Chambliss delivered the committee's unanimous approval of the new Secretary of Agriculture, and swiftly moved forward with a series of hearings in step with the developing concerns in livestock, school nutrition, grains and futures markets, food safety and biotechnology's future for agriculture. Chambliss secured a practical and fair amount for agriculture's share of deficit reduction during the fiscal year 2005 budget reconciliation, and held firm to maintain hard-won provisions of the 2002 Farm Bill.

In Georgia, agriculture supports one in every six jobs, an ever-present reminder in Chambliss' long time championing of national and home state farming concerns. Long before his election to Congress, Chambliss specialized in representing farmers' legal interests in South Georgia. During his four terms in the House, Chambliss was instrumental in drafting two farm bills and reforming the federal crop insurance program through his chairmanship of the Agriculture's Subcommittee on General Farm Commodities and Risk Management.

Additionally, Chambliss' leadership and experience on the issues of terrorism, homeland security, and intelligence matters earned him an appointment to the prestigious Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, where he steadfastly advocates that our U.S. intelligence community must dramatically improve its information sharing and human intelligence gathering abilities. To ensure our troops on the ground and the new Director of National Intelligence have access to the most timely and accurate intelligence, Chambliss has authored legislation calling for the creation of a Four Star military command for intelligence within the Department of Defense. Chambliss' previous role as the chairman of the House Intelligence Subcommittee on Terrorism and Homeland Security made him one of the leading congressional experts on these issues. Immediately following the tragic September 11th terrorist attacks, Chambliss' House subcommittee conducted a thorough investigation and released the first comprehensive report detailing critical shortfalls within the United States intelligence community's performance and technological capabilities.

As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chambliss continues Georgia's longstanding tradition of leadership and advocacy for the state's military installations. Following in the footsteps of former Senators Richard B. Russell, Jr., and Sam Nunn, Chambliss is a strong voice for Georgia's defense industry and the military community. Throughout the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure round, Chambliss has remained steadfast in defense of Georgia's bases targeted for closure and has also been a tireless advocate to improve the quality of life for our troops and their families.

In 1994, Chambliss was first elected to Congress to represent Georgia's 8th congressional district. Throughout his legislative career, Chambliss has been honored with numerous awards from both the private and public sector for his work in the fields of agriculture, defense, budget, and national security. He is a past recipient of the Air Force Association's W. Stuart Symington Award, the top civilian award given annually for outstanding contributions in the field of national security and was awarded the Reserve Officers Association's Minuteman of the Year Award in 2005.

Chambliss is a member of the Senate Caucus on Military Depots, Arsenals and Ammunition Plants, the Congressional Sportsmen Foundation, the Congressional Fire Services Caucus, the Rural Health Caucus, the Juvenile Diabetes Caucus and he is the co-chair of the Senate Reserve Caucus.

Chambliss earned a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of Georgia in 1966 and earned his Juris Doctor degree from the University of Tennessee College of Law in 1968. Chambliss and his wife, Julianne, have been married since 1966, and reside in Moultrie, Georgia. They have two children and two grandchildren.

J. Frank McGill

This session is pleased to feature J. Frank McGill, retired Georgia county agent and state Specialist for peanuts to share his thoughts on the Extension Service and its' place in today's world.

Frank began his service as a county agent in Southwest Georgia and later as the Extension Specialist for Peanuts. During this assignment for 27 years, the peanut yield in the state increased from 800 pounds per acre to 3,200 pounds per acre. He earned total respect from all he served. Many peanut growers would not make a decision regarding their crop until they conferred with Frank McGill. He was appointed chairman of the U.S. Senate Task Force on Peanut Policy and has served as president of the American Peanut Research and Education Association.

Frank is active in both his church and community affairs. He is a person of sincere spiritual beliefs, having served in numerous lay-person positions.

He was promoted to the rank of full professor and appointed distinguished professor -- an attest to the contributions. His contributions to the farming community are reflected in his receiving the "2000 American/World Agriculture Award Recipient" by this organization six years ago.

Frank McGill is an excellent communicator - "a teacher above all". He has been referred to as "a county agent's specialist".

Extension philosophy and professionalism, a bit of spiritual flavor, fun and laughter – all describe Frank McGill. A man of modesty and humility, Mr. McGill brushes off his awards by saying "It was the team approach that did the job, and, once a county agent - always a county agent".

Representative Don Pasley

Representative Don Pasley was elected to the Kentucky House of Representatives in 2001. He currently serves as Vice Chair of both the Agriculture and Small Business Committee and the Transportation Committee. He is a key member on the Appropriations and Revenue Committee and is considered an expert on agriculture.

Representative Pasley is a member of the Tobacco Task Force and also serves on the Council for State Government Rural Issues Task Force. He is an ex-officio member of the Clark County Extension Council.

Representative Pasley is a fourth generation Clark County farmer, owning and operating 450 acres where he raises cattle, tobacco, and vegetables. He harvests fresh vegetables like sweet peppers and markets them to businesses in Central Kentucky.

Wayne Dollar

The Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, under the leadership of Wayne Dollar, is a major supporter of Georgia Extension and the Georgia Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Wayne is a graduate of the University of Georgia and began his career as a county Extension agent in south Georgia. He currently owns and maintains a farm in Thomas County, Georgia.

He was first elected president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation and its eight Affiliate Companies in 1994 for a two year term. In 2000, he was elected to an unprecedented fourth term as president. The Georgia Farm Bureau is the state's largest general farm organization, serving over 336,000 members.

Keith L. Smith

Associate Vice President, Agricultural Administration,
Director, Ohio State University Extension and Associate Dean

Dr. Smith became the Director of OSU Extension and Associate Dean of the College of Food, Agricultural and Environmental Sciences in July 1992. In 1998, he was named Associate Vice President for Agricultural Administration. OSU Extension is an organization with over a $60 million budget and over 1,200 faculty and support staff, who design and deliver educational programs to the eleven million citizens of Ohio in four major program areas with the help of many specialty units. As Associate Dean, he represents Extension in meetings with the Dean, other associate deans and department chairs. He also serves on national committees as the Extension representative for Ohio State.

A native of Utah, he received his bachelor and masters degrees in Agricultural Education from Utah State University, and his Ph.D. in Agricultural Education from Iowa State University. He came to OSU in 1980 as Extension Leader for Personnel Development and Assistant Professor in the Department of Agricultural Education.

Robert Hedberg

Mr. Hedberg joined the Office of the Administrator at Cooperative State Research Education and Extension Service (CSREES) in July 2005. In this role he provides an interface between CSREES, Congressional offices and other Federal agencies regarding agricultural research, education and extension.

Prior to assuming this role Mr. Hedberg had been Director of Science Policy for the National and Regional Weed Science Societies since 1999. His primary responsibilities were to strengthen communication between federal policy makers and the members of these societies, to increase awareness of the discipline of weed science, and to help improve federal weed research and management efforts.

Additional agricultural policy experience includes work on the U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee as an American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) Fellow from 1995-1996. In this position Mr. Hedberg participated in the passage of the 1996 Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act (The Farm Bill) and the Food Quality Protection Act of 1996 (FQPA).

Mr. Hedberg also has broad practical experience in multiple aspects of agricultural business, research and education. This experience includes positions as Regional Agronomic Business Manager and Manager of Crop Protection Research for Agway, Inc. a large farm cooperative in the Northeastern US; as owner of New England Crop Advisory Services, a technical consulting and contract research firm and as a Regional Agronomy Agent specializing in field crops and maple syrup production for the University of Vermont Extension Service.

Mr. Hedberg's education includes a Bachelor's degree in Crop and Soil Science from Michigan State University, a Master's degree in Plant Science from the University of New Hampshire and a Certificate of Graduate Studies in Management and Administration from the Harvard University Extension School.
